

Product Information:

Egg Oil has wide applications in traditional medicine as a hair and skin treatment. It has moisturizing, anti-oxidant, and anti-ageing properties which are used to reduce grey hair and hair loss, treat eczema, dermatitis and other skin conditions. Taken internally it is also thought to treat indigestion, improve memory, and support immune system function.

The triglycerides in egg oil include many types of essential fatty acids, including oleic and linoleic fatty acid and the cholesterol found in egg oil is excellent for the skin. The oil can also be used as a carrier oil for essential oils such as tea tree oil (for anti-bacterial effects) or lavender (for calming effects).

Product Applications:

Cosmetic:

- In traditional Indian medicine, egg oil is used to treat hair loss, dandruff, grey hair, and frizzy hair. It is also said to stimulate hair growth and regenerate hair follicles.
- Egg oil is an excellent carrier/base oil for skin creams, ointments, lotions, etc. It acts as a moisturizer, anti-oxidant, skin penetration enhancer, skin conditioner, and anti-bacterial agent.
- It can also be used as a cuticle softener and to reduce the peeling of nails.

Nutraceutical:

- It is thought to be useful to treat indigestion, improve memory, and support immune system function.

Dermatological:

- Traditional Chinese medicine uses egg oil for burns, eczema, dermatitis, mouth ulcers, skin ulcers, tinea capitis, ringworm, frostbite, and hemorrhoids.
